To Plant this Fall

Most garden material does best when planted in the fall. Plantings made in the fall, if given normal protection and kept well watered until the ground freezes, will become established, make root-growth, and start off in early spring like veteran plants.

September is an excellent month to plant Hardy Perennials and Evergreens.

Roses and many other deciduous shrubs and trees are best planted in October and November.

Plant this fall while stocks are complete, plants fresh, and the ground warm and workable to receive them. Plant this fall and enjoy next spring.

BOBBINK & ATKINS, Rutherford, N. J.

RHODODENDRONS

Rhododendrons are among the most beautiful of all flowering shrubs hardy in the North and East, and anyone can duplicate the lovely picture above with B. & A. Hybrid Rhododendrons at a surprisingly low price.

Rhododendrons require a sour soil, but this can be easily prepared from a mixture of ordinary garden loam, old cow-manure, sand, and leaf-mold or peat-moss. We have the finest stock of Rhododendrons in this country. These are all dug with a ball of earth and then burlapped, so that there is no trouble in transplanting.

PLANT THIS FALL FOR BLOOM NEXT YEAR—

Why Sacrifice a Year's Bloom by Waiting Until Spring?

We have divided these varieties into four groups: (A) means very high growth; (B) high growth; (C) medium growth; and (D) dwarf low growth.

TAXUS FOR SPECIMENS, FOUNDATION PLANTINGS, AND HEDGES

For many years, for centuries, in fact, Yew trees and Yew hedges have given dignity and charm to the European countryside. American home-makers have never appreciated the Yew as they have in Europe. This is to be deplored as there is no evergreen in the world today so satisfactory for specimens or hedges as the upright Japanese Yew. A Taxus hedge around your property will add thousands of dollars to its value, as well as giving pleasure to and providing privacy for yourself and family.

HARDY PERENNIALS • The Old-Fashioned Flowers

ORIENTAL POPPIES

Spectacular, the Oriental Poppies give that brilliant touch so necessary in many gardens in May and June. The large, crinkled, single and semi-double flowers in the modern range of colors lend themselves to color blending far beyond the scope of the old types. Fall planting is best, and strong field-grown plants, given reasonably rich soil and a light winter covering, will produce strong flowering plants next spring.

All Oriental Poppies, 40 cts. each, $1 for 3 of one variety, $3.25 for 10 of one variety

COLLECTION: 1 each of 5 distinct kinds of our selection $1.65

HELLEBORUS NIGER • CHRISTMAS ROSE

One of the very few plants blooming in the garden during the winter months. They prefer rich soil and partial shade and must not be allowed to suffer for water. The anemone-like flowers are from 2½ to 3 inches across and last for weeks, taking on various tints of color, finally turning light green. Plants often bloom in early winter and again toward spring.

LATE-FLOWERING VARIETIES

Helleborus atropurpurea. Brownish red flowers in February and March.

CRIMSON GLORY
Pat. 105

(W. Kordes Sons, 1935)
A beautiful crimson flower shaded deep red and mellowed by a velvety nap. Wonderful fragrance. Borne continuously on low but healthy plants. $1.25 each.

FRAU KARL DRUSCHKI

New CROSS ROSES

The following five Roses were originated in the garden of Dr. Whitman Cross, Nanpew, Chevy Chase, Md., and result from hybridization work on the Nanpew Roses by Dr. Cross and his assistant, Nels J. Hansen.

Dr. Cross, until his retirement in 1925, was for 45 years geologist of the U. S. Geological Survey, but since 1925 has devoted more and more time to his large collection of Roses.

Chevy Chase Rambler, (Cross, 1929) Propagation rights reserved. A lovely Rambler with flowers disease-resistant in high degree, giving a pleasing-appearant plant throughout the season. The blooms are small, double, in loose panicles, and are deep crimson, mostly on stems from last year's wood. It is a late bloomer and is long lasting. $1.50 each.

Daylight, HT., (Cross, 1929) Very large, double flowers of light peach color opening from lovely buds. The center petals are soft satiny pink, the outer ones creamy white. They reflex lightly, making a perfect exhibition flower which is produced on a long stem, 60 petals. The plants are strong, healthy, with attractive bronzy foliage. $1.50 each.

Hon. Lady Lindsay, Shrub, (Hansen, 1929) This Rose of quite unusual characteristics is a cross between Dr. W. Van Fleet and Rev. E. Page Roberts, differing markedly as a plant from both parents. It is an almost evergreen shrub or pillar Rose. The blooms in form, petalage and make-up are more nearly like Rev. E. Page Roberts but less yellow, and pink soon dominates as they age. 30 to 40 petals. Its lasting foliage and frequent bloom make it almost unique in its various uses. $1.50 each.

Red Boy, Large-flowered Polyantha, (Cross, 1929) Fine plants blooming freely with 3½-inch, nearly single flowers. The color is brilliant scarlet with prominent yellow stamens. A bushy plant with good strong foliage which should be pruned only as necessary. A Polyantha distinct for its great vigor and its persistence to bloom. $1.50 each.

Suntan, HT., (Cross, 1929) Very large, double, orange-yellow flowers opening to clear yellow. Strong plants with dark green foliage that is disease-resistant. Unusually free blooming. $1.50 each.

R. M. S. QUEEN MARY HT. Pat. 249
(H. A. Verschuren, 1937)

A glorious blending of rich glowing salmon pink with an orange base, the whole effect being a lovely warm pink. These large, full, delicately perfumed blooms develop from long-pointed buds which carry beautiful tones. The strong, bushy plants have attractive, healthy foliage and the flowers are produced on long, strong stems, making it an ideal cut-flower. $1.50 each.

A NEW HYBRID DAMASK ROSE, ORATAM

Pat. 257

(M. R. Jacobus, introduced by Bobbink & Atkins, 1939)

A Damask type of plant 5 to 6 feet tall, perfectly hardy, producing an abundant crop of bloom in June. The double flowers are quite large, pink, with coppery tones at edges, and a yellow base, reverse yellow. Rich Damask fragrance. Named for a Lined Lem-Lenape Indian chief who ruled Mr. Jacobus' section of northern New Jersey in the seventeenth century. $1.50 each.

RUTH ALEXANDER

LC. Pat. 178

(Rena E. Wilber, 1936)

This gorgeous climbing Rose is a class by itself. It is a vigorous plant with heavy, canes and extra-long, heavy, leathery dark bronzy green foliage. The flowers are from 4½ to 5 inches in diameter, of rich cadmium-orange with the outer third of each petal a glowing peach-red. There are only about 15 petals in this great Rose, just enough for the gorgeous colors to show to best advantage. In addition to beauty the flower is blessed with a rich fruity fragrance. $1.50 each.

NEW CLIMBING ROSE, RUTH ALEXANDER. Pat. 178

GOLDEN CLIMBER. Pat. 28

HYBRID TEA, R. M. S. QUEEN MARY. Pat. 249

A RARE LILAC

An outstanding Korean Lilac blooming ten days to two weeks ahead of the French Lilacs. The large bloom clusters are made up of pale lilac, single flowers about an inch across. In early spring and again in early autumn its handsome foliage displays a rich bronzy color. A distinct fragrance adds to the desirability of this rare and dainty Lilac of which we have a limited supply. 3 to 4 ft., $1.50 each, 3 for $4.
